
Child welfare

If you have, at any moment a concern about your child's welfare or safety it's important to respond by contacting a member of staff at its' school.

You know your children and have a responsibility to solve any problems that can come up. We encourage good communication and co-operation when it comes to your child's welfare.

We want to ensure that all parties unite in a collective aim to be in the aid of your family if and when needed.

Collective responsibility

Keldan

Is a collaborative forum at Norðurþing Family Council for family affairs servicing in Norðurþing, Skútustaðahreppur, Þingeyjarsveit, Tjörneshreppur, Langesbyggð and Svalbarðshreppur.

It's a united team of professionals in the field of child welfare and family affairs which main aim is to ensure timely support for families, both in school and at home.

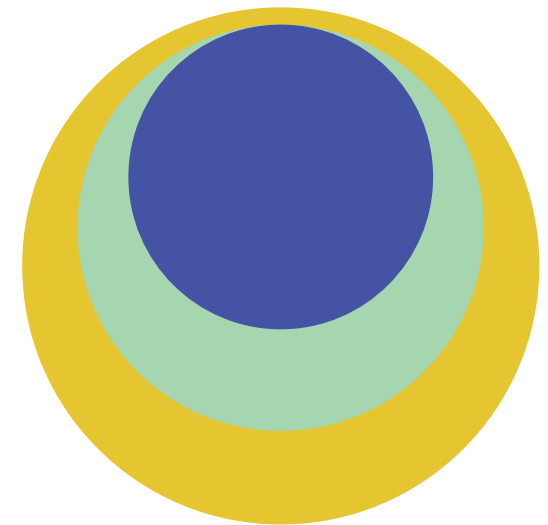

Norðurþing
Ketilsbraut 7 - 9
464 6100 / nordurthing.is nordurthing@nordurthing.is

K E L D A N

Child welfare Collective responsibility

Child welfare

If an issue arises, we believe in the work process of first looking for co-operation and support with members of the child's most inner circle e.g. a teacher or other faculty member.

Collective responsibility

If the issue at hand needs more support the team of professionals at Keldan is more than willing to assist. The team consists of social workers, a psychologist, a child welfare specialist and a nurse as well as other specialists on demand. The child's teacher will be of assistance and guide the family as needed. The parents are in control and need to give their consent before starting a journey towards welfare at Keldan.

Child welfare

If you need to contact the Keldan team you can reach out to either the faculty of your child's kindergarten or school or these listed below:

The Principal at your child's school

The Vice Principal at your child's school

The school nurse

Sigríður Hauksdóttir, Child welfare specialist siggahauks@nordurthing.is

Harpa Rut Hallgrímsdóttir,
Social worker
harpa@nordurthing.is
